Sinopsis

Inglés técnico para Administración, Comercio e Informática is a textbook specifically tailored to the needs of students taking vocational training courses in Business Management, Commerce, and Information Technology (Ciclos Formativos de Admón. y Gestión, Comercio y Marketing, e Informática y Comunicaciones). Aligned with the syllabi of these courses, the book's content will equip students with the fundamental English language skills they need to navigate the working world. Practical grammar and vocabulary exercises, as well as other essential language learning activities —listening, reading, writing, and speaking—, will empower learners with the language proficiency needed to thrive in various personal and professional settings.

Effective communication is crucial for professional development. Thus, special emphasis is placed on the development of skills such as verbal communication and teamwork. The written and spoken communication activities and projects are specially designed to prepare learners for both real work and real life situations. Students will develop their ability to collaborate with others while also learning how to use the Internet responsibly. The texts and listening tasks —inspired by an imaginary medium-sized company and its dynamic team of employees— will immerse pupils in a world of practical learning. As they follow the day-to-day activities and conversations of three relatable, young and diverse professionals, students will be motivated to achieve their goals and advance in their own professional careers.
